ABSTRACT

A survey was conducted by the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges to determine minority enrollment at state universities and land-grant colleges. There was a four percent decline in overall enrollment at state and land-grant universities from 1977 to 1978. The survey covered 354 campuses and determined that black students, representing the largest minority group, comprised 7.3 percent of total 1978 enrollment. Comparative data for 1976 and 1978 are presented for total enrollment of ethnic groups. The survey contains data by level, sex, and full-time/part-time status. Among the findings are: non-resident aliens jumped 21.9 percent in two years; non-resident aliens headed all minorities in full-time status; and black enrollment at predominantly white campuses continued to rise. Institutions with the largest minority enrollments and enrollment data are included. (SW)

ERRATA

CORRECTION: In Tables on Page 9, 10 and 12 of Minority Enrollment at State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, Fall, 1978, please change names of North Carolina institutions of higher education to the following (not as published):

Elizabeth City State University; Fayetteville State University; Winston-Salem State University; North Carolina State University at Raleigh; North Carolina Central University; Pembroke State University.

On Pages 8 and 9 eliminate references to "predominantly white campuses" and read figures reported for institutions as listed.

Second paragraph, Page 9, beginning In fall, 1978 x x x, make it read:

In fall, 1978 there were 139,050 black students at 243 campuses which were not classified as historically black institutions. In total, there were 258 campuses which reported enrollments of black students.

MINORITY ENROLLMENT AT STATE UNIVERSITIES AND LAND-GRANT COLLEGES

Fall 1978

April, 1979

An analysis conducted by the Office of Communications Services (OCS) of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges (NASULGC) of minority enrollment in the fall 1978 at 129 of its 142 member institutions, showed that:

·Minority students comprised 15.1 percent of the total enrollment in fall, 1978, compared with 15.2 percent in fall, 1976 and 11 percent in fall, 1972. (Information on minority enrollment data for fall, 1974 was derived from an institutional listing by the National Center for Education Statistics (NCES) of enrollment by level and ethnic group at state and land-grant universities by full-time status only. No minority enrollment survey was made by NASULGC for fall, 1974 and, therefore, minority data for this period has been omitted from comparisons.) In fall, 1978, 261 member campuses reported a total of 391,304 minority students out of a total enrollment of 2,589,782.

·Black students, representing the largest minority group, accounted for almost half of the total minority enrollment in fall, 1978, with 188,696 students reported under the category Black Non-Hispanic. Black students comprised 7.3 percent of the total enrollment at reporting state and land-grant universities. Non-resident alien, a category first surveyed by NASULGC in 1976, ranked second, with 74,738 students (2.9%).

·Enrollments for other minority groups were: Asian or Pacific Islander, 61,282 (2.4%); Hispanic, 54,508 (2.1%) and American Indian or Alaskan Native, 12,080 (.5%).

*Figures are based on data from 261 campuses, representing 129 member institutions.

Minority enrollment information for the nation's major state universities was compiled by NASULGC from figures reported to NCES on its summary form for the Fall Enrollment and Compliance Report of Institutions of Higher Education, 1978. Member institutions provided copies of the report to the Association for use in tabulating data on minority enrollment. Responses were received from 261 of the 397 campuses which are included in the Association's 142 member institutions. Comparative data for fall, 1978 and 1976 is based on information from 257 campuses.

NON-RESIDENT ALIENS JUMP
21.9 PERCENT IN TWO YEARS

Non-resident aliens, a category first surveyed by NASULGC in fall, 1976, experienced the largest growth from 1976 to 1978. There were 60,189 non-resident alien students in fall, 1976 as compared to 73,382 students in fall, 1978, representing a 21.9 percent increase. The next largest growth in minority enrollment was the Asian/Pacific Islander category. This group jumped 9,522 students, from 50,997 to 60,519, or an 18.7 percent increase.

Enrollment of Hispanic students grew almost 14 percent, from 47,641 in fall, 1976 to 54,273 in fall, 1978, while black enrollment rose almost 12 percent, increasing by 18,895 students. American Indian enrollment was the only minority category where growth measured under 11 percent. There were 11,433 American Indian students in 1976 and 12,014 students in , an increase of 5.1 percent.

During the same period, enrollments among all other students went up only 3.4 percent, from 2,101,629 to 2,172,496.

(Table 2 below provides comparative data on total minority enrollment for fall, 1976 and fall, 1978.)

TWO-YEAR COMPARISONS SHOW GAINS IN ALL CATEGORIES BUT NOT ALL LEVELS

Since the category was first surveyed by NASULGC in fall, 1976, non-resident aliens have made great strides in growth, according to an analysis of minority comparisons by level and category at the 257 campuses providing comparable data for fall, 1976 and fall, 1978.

The percentage increase for non-resident aliens increased 21.9 percent overall for the two-year period. This was the largest growth reported for all minority groups.

At the undergraduate level, non-resident aliens reported the largest percentage increase (26.1%) over all other minority categories at this level. There were 26,996 foreign students in 1976 and 34,037 in 1978. Enrollment of non-resident aliens also increased at all other levels. The levels and the percentage increases were: first-time freshmen, 3.4%; unclassified, 17%; first-professional, 34.2% and graduate, 18.4%.

The next minority category with the largest overall increase from fall, 1976 to fall, 1978 was the Asian/Pacific Islander group. Enrollment for these students grew 18.7 percent from 50,997 to 60,519. The largest increase by level within this group came at the unclassified level, which rose from 2,384 to 3,999, representing a 67.7 percent increase.

Percentage increases during the two-year period in Asian enrollment at all other levels were: undergraduate, 16.9%; first-time freshmen, 22.3%; first-professional, 17.1% and graduate, 11.6%.

Hispanic students came in third in overall percentage increases between 1976 and 1978 with a total increase of almost 14 percent. Like Asian enrollment, hispanic student enrollment grew the most at the unclassified level, increasing by 42.6 percent. The next largest increase by level for hispanic students came at the first-time freshmen level. There were 6,214 first-time freshmen hispanic students in 1976 as compared to 8,954 in 1978, or a 39.3 percent increase.

Undergraduate enrollment of hispanic students rose 13.8 percent during the same period, while first-professional and graduate enrollment of this group grew 15.4 and .44 percent, respectively.

The enrollment of black students grew 11.9 percent, ranking fourth among minority categories in respect to growth rate. Undergraduate enrollment rose 11.5 percent from 126,080 to 140,567. First-time freshmen increased 8.7 percent, while first-professional enrollment grew only .99 percent.

*Two-year comparisons are based on data from 257 campuses, representing 127 member institutions.

The largest reported growth of black students came at the unclassified level, where enrollment jumped 40.3 percent, from 11,637 to 16,327.

The only reported decrease in black enrollment occurred at the graduate level, though the drop was less than two percent. Black graduate enrollment fell 1.8 percent during this period. In 1976, there were 17,563 graduate black students, compared to 17,251 in 1978.

American Indian/Alaskan Native students increased 5.1 percent overall between fall, 1976 and fall, 1978, but reported decreases for undergraduates (.2%); first-time freshmen (.6%) and first-professional (11.1%) levels.

Indian enrollment grew from 1,153 to 1,738 at the unclassified level, increasing 50.7 percent. Graduate enrollment for this group was up 3.6 percent, from 1,323 to 1,371.

(Table 3 on page 4 shows a two-year comparison of minority enrollments by level for fall, 1978 and fall, 1976.)

NON-RESIDENT ALIEN STUDENTS FOLLOW UNIQUE ENROLLMENT PATTERN

In fall, 1978 enrollment of non-resident alien students showed a slightly different pattern than that of other minority groups. The 74,738 students reported in this category were divided almost evenly between undergraduate and graduate programs, with only a small portion of the total group reported in unclassified and first-professional levels. There were 34,385 non-resident alien undergraduates and 35,992 graduate students. Only 3,651 foreign students were reported as unclassified, and 710 foreign students were enrolled in first-professional programs.

The enrollment of alien, or foreign students, represented less than two percent of the total enrollment at every level except graduate. Foreign students accounted for a hefty 9.2 percent of the graduate enrollment.

(Data on minority enrollment by level in the fall of 1978 is shown in Table 4 on page 5.)

WOMEN HAVE EDGE IN MANY MINORITY CATEGORIES
ALTHOUGH OUTNUMBERED BY MEN IN TOTAL FIGURES

Men outnumbered women in overall minority enrollment, but in some categories women had a clear edge. Men accounted for 52.9 percent of the total minority enrollment, with 206,764 men and 184,540 women reported in the five minority categories.

A comparison of male/female white enrollment for the same campuses showed that women made up 46.1 percent of the total white enrollment, with men accounting for the remaining 53.9 percent.

The slightly better representation of women among minority students was largely due to the preponderance of black women over men at all levels except first-professional enrollments. Women accounted for 57.3 percent of the total black enrollment, with 108,160 women students reported compared with 80,536 men. The biggest difference came at the graduate level, where women made up 60.6 percent of the total black graduate enrollment. There were 11,393 black women graduate students compared with 7,409 black men graduate students.

In addition to the predominance of women among black enrollments, the enrollment of women exceeded the enrollment of men in several other categories. Among unclassified students, the enrollment of women exceeded that of men for each minority group, with the exception of non-resident aliens and Asians.

(Table 5 on page 7 gives data on minority enrollment by sex and by level for fall 1978.)

NON-RESIDENT ALIENS HEAD ALL MINORITIES IN FULL-TIME STATUS

Minority students are more likely to be enrolled on a full-time basis than other students. Among all minority groups, non-resident aliens had the largest percentage of full-time students and American Indians had the smallest.

Among the 391,304 minority students this year 291,121 or 74.4 percent were enrolled in full-time programs, and 100,183 or 25.6 percent were enrolled in part-time programs. The 2,181,484 white students included 1,620,780 full-time students, or 74.3 percent, and 560,704 part-time students, or 25.7 percent.

BLACK ENROLLMENT AT PREDOMINANTLY WHITE CAMPUSES CONTINUES TO RISE

The primary measure of progress in opening new higher education opportunities to blacks over the last decade has been the degree to which black students have been enrolling at predominantly white institutions. In fall, 1968, 60.8 percent of all black students enrolled at state and land-grant universities within the continental United States were attending 17 historically black colleges and universities. By fall, 1976, predominantly white institutions enrolled 68.3 percent of the total black population at state and land-grant universities. There were 128,826 black students at the 309 predominantly white campuses.

In fall, 1978 there were 129,976 black students at the 258 predominantly white reporting campuses.

The percentage of black students at 29 of these campuses in fall, 1978 exceeded 11.5 percent. These campuses, and the percentage of their enrollment which is black, included:

U. of No. Carolina, Elizabeth City	90.78%	Louisiana State U., New Orleans	16.59%
U. of North Carolina, Fayetteville	90.25	Univ. of Illinois, Chicago Circle	16.53
U. of No. Carolina, Winston-Salem	88.25	Univ. of Arkansas, Monticello	16.10

U. of South Carolina, Beaufort	17.79	University of Missouri, St. Louis	11.66
U. of South Carolina, Sumter	16.95

When the first NASULGC survey was conducted in fall, 1968, there were four state and land-grant university campuses with reported black enrollments of more than 1,000. By 1970 the number of such campuses had grown to 15 and in fall, 1972, there were 32. In fall, 1976, 37 reporting campuses had black enrollments of better than 1,000. In 1978 that number grew to 49.

The campuses reporting more than 1,000 black students in fall, 1978 and the number each reported included:

([1]Data for the University of the District of Columbia, included in survey information for the Association, fits into neither the category of predominantly white or traditionally black institutions. Since its founding as Federal City College in fall, 1968, the campus has enrolled large numbers of black students. Therefore, it has never been a predominantly white campus but also cannot be considered a traditionally black campus since it was not originally set up to serve black students only. It is the only campus located within the continental United States included in survey information which cannot be placed in one of the two categories.)

HISTORICALLY BLACK CAMPUSES CONTINUED TO RAISE NON-BLACK ENROLLMENTS

At the same time that the predominantly white colleges and universities have been making progress in increasing their black enrollments, the historically black colleges which hold membership in the Association have been increasing their non-black enrollments (whites and members of other minority groups). In fall, 1968, non-black students represented only 4.4 percent of the enrollment at these institutions. In fall, 1976, the non-black enrollment on the 20 historically black campuses participating in the NASULGC survey totalled 13.4 percent of the total enrollment. Those campuses enrolled 58,875 black students and 9,126 non-black students. In fall, 1978, the percentage of non-black enrollment at the 15 campuses participating in the survey was 16.7. There were 9,950 non-black students and 49,646 black students enrolled at these campuses.

In seven cases, white enrollment at these historically black institutions accounted for ten percent or more of the total enrollment. (At four campuses, white enrollment is considerably greater than ten percent of the total.) Those historically black institutions with white enrollments above ten percent of the total, listed in descending order, were:

Campus	White Non-Hispanic Enrollment	% of Total
Lincoln University	1,218	52.23%
Delaware State College	818	37.99
Kentucky State University	810	36.90
Alabama A&M University	861	19.46
Univ. of Maryland, Eastern Shore	195	17.91
Univ. of Arkansas, Pine Bluff	355	11.84
Florida A&M University	620	10.54

LARGE NUMBER OF CAMPUSES RANK HIGH IN ONE OR MORE MINORITY GROUPS

A campus ranking of the largest enrollments for each minority category showed a large number of campuses with large minority enrollments in at least one minority category. In addition, this year five campuses showed up on three largest minority enrollment lists and six campuses appeared on two lists.

The five campuses which appeared on three largest minority enrollment lists in Table 7 and the categories in which they appeared were: University of California, Los Angeles -- Non-Resident Alien, Indian and Asian; University of Illinois, Chicago Circle -- Black, Asian and Hispanic; University of Minnesota, Twin Cities -- Non-Resident Alien, Indian and Asian; University of Houston, Central -- Non-Resident Alien, Black and Hispanic; and University of Washington -- Non-Resident Alien, Indian and Asian.

The six campuses which appeared on two largest minority enrollment lists in Table 7 and the categories in which they appeared were: Arizona State University -- Indian and Hispanic; University of California, Berkeley -- Non-Resident Alien and Asian; University of the District of Columbia -- Black and Indian; University of Maryland, College Park -- Non-Resident Alien and Black; University of New Mexico, Albuquerque -- Indian and Hispanic; and University of Texas, Austin -- Non-Resident Alien and Hispanic.

In two of the five top ten rankings, certain campuses were eliminated from the lists to give a more representative picture of enrollments in these categories. Historically black campuses are not included in the top ten list for Black Non-Hispanic enrollment, but campuses within this group which had sufficiently large black enrollments to place them among the top ten campuses are footnoted in Table 7. Campuses of the University of Hawaii are eliminated from the list of the ten campuses with the largest Asian/Pacific Islander enrollments, but these enrollments are also footnoted in Table 7 on page 12.
